This week's News:

2021 SUMMER REMIX EDITION

- New Animals Highlight: KYLO AND REN are the new baby goats that just arrived at High Meadows this past weekend from a farm in Lakeland, Florida. Their names were revealed today at Livestock. They are distinguishable by their heads, as Kylo has more white hair on his head than Ren. They are approximately 10-week-old Nigerian Dwarf kid wethers and are brothers as well. Campers had the chance to meet and pet them during Barnyard. They are getting acclimated to our campus and the other animals, and will enhance our Barnyard community for many years to come.

~ GREEN: Jennifer

-Green groups had a very exciting week visiting and learning about baby ducks, the new baby goats, and Jennifer's white blue-eyed bunny named Periwinkle. We hit the target many times this week at Archery and swooshed down the waterslide. We worked hard on the hilarious renditions of our "Herman the Worm" act and our "Rick roll" of camp for our performances at Friday's Livestock. WE made some very colorful tie-dye shirts and creative clay projects. We played everyone-for-themselves dodgeball, bomberball, and zebratonicus. What fun! On Wednesday 7/14, the Unit Choice for Green A (the Nuclear Narwhals) was Superhero/ Supervillain Day while Green B (the Evil Avocados) chose Animal Day!

~ BLUE: Eddie

-Blue groups capped off their session with social ball, greasy watermelon, and Livestock. This week, they got to meet the new baby goats as well as some baby ducks and also go to enjoy a marshmallow-filled day at the fire pit during a rainy week! Our Unit Choice for Wednesday 7/14 was Aloha Wednesday!

~ PURPLE: Libby

- The Joey Chestnut Fangirls and Better Purple Bananas got the week started with a bang showcasing some funny skills in our Randomstock performances! The creativity was in full force as we made our long-awaited tie-dye creations, made paper from recycled materials, and put the finishing touches on our clay pieces. We tested our agility playing Water Weasel and became one with the mud during water slide day and our day in the woods. We met the new baby goats and got a surprise visit with some adorable baby ducks! We capped off the week with an Archery tournament and some unforgettable Livestock performances! For Unit Choice day on Wednesday 7/14, The Joey Chestnut Fangirls chose Adam Sandler Day while the Better Purple Bananas chose Solid Color Day!

~ CITs: Rey and Armani

- The CITs had a spectacular, wonderful, and brilliant week. Our time was filled with joyful interactions with campers, counselors, and one another. We enjoyed playing silly games and building a collaborative community of future counselors. We used our time crafting our skills, discussing good strategies to benefit growth, and sharing a caring mindset. We have loved this time with the campers and one another and look forward to future opportunities together. For Unit Choice Day on Wednesday 7/14, the CITs dressed up with the camper groups they are assigned to.
